A Scheme of Chances of Insurance

On the Lottery authorized by Law for raising 2250 dollars, for the Lexington Lodge, No. 25; to raise the same sum for the purpose of repairing the streets building new bridges, paving, &c. the town of Lexington.

THE citizens of the town of Lexington, as the representatives of the inhabitants, submit the following scheme to their consideration, and to the citizens of the State at large. The inhabitants of the town, whether merchants, tradesmen or mechanics, and the farmers, planters and laborers of the country mutually depend upon, and assist each other. The inhabitants of the town have something to dispose of to the cultivator of the land, which he cannot manufacture for himself at the same price; so the other hand, as his occupation prevents him from staying by his own labor in the field, the produce of the country, he is compelled to receive in exchange for what he has furnished to the husbandman, that produce, either in the article itself, or the price of it.

These observations are verified by the great rise in the value of landed property adjacent to the town of Lexington is superior to the rise of property of the same description in other parts of the State, which can only be accounted for by the rapid improvement and increase of population in these parts.

To the citizens of the town of Lexington, the trustees suggest that with the funds authorized by Law to be collected and appropriated by them, the proceeds of seven years, taxes will be sufficient to build bridges, to make sewers for carrying off the water, to sink wells and erect pumps (the necessity of which has been evidenced by the late calamity by fire) and to make such other repairs, as the necessity for the health, safety and convenience of the inhabitants demands. What surplus the temporary trustees hereuntofore made, have now secured, which may be considered the amount of their funds, every citizen can determine.

The trade and communication betwixt the town and the country, reflects the circulation of the blood; it is the pulse of the heart, and from thence driven to warm and invigorate the most remote parts.

The Scheme they propose is that they will divide the time numbers of chances of insurance, as chances of insurance, in the Lexington Lodge lottery, with the time numbers and at the same price, and they will pay to the holder of a chance of the same number, a ticket which shall draw a prize in the lottery, the time which the fortunate holder of the ticket shall be entitled to. The fortunate holder of a chance of insurance, to be subject to the same lotteries of chances in the lottery, to a deduction of fifteen per centum.

AMSTERDAM, Jan. 12.
According to the census taken in 1795, the number of inhabitants in the seven Provinces amounted to 2,500,000; but the census just now taken by order of the States General, shows only a population of 1,750,000 inhabitants; such has been the effect of the tyranny of the Stadtholder and the Prussians under Brunsvick.

HAGUE, Jan. 20.
The province of Holland, according to its new division, contains 55 districts, which derive their names from the rivers and brooks on which they are situated; and Amsterdam by itself contains 14 of these districts.

Each of the districts sends a representative to the National Convention. The province of Holland sends therefore 55 representatives, consequently as many as the other provinces together.

The French government has lately given a signal proof of its firm resolution to respect faithfully the independence and rights of other nations. The committee of Sealand endeavored to procure the re-union of that province with France; secret offers were made to the members of the Directory, whom they hoped to persuade into an acquiescence by representing how advantageous such a re-union would be to the French Republic; but the Directory disclaimed the whole to the ministers of the Batavian Republic.

The French fleet, consisting of 1 ship of 80 guns, 7 of 74, 4 of 64, 2 of 58 guns, and 10 frigates and sloops, has been there eight days ready to take the sea, and waits only for a favorable wind. The destination of the fleet is not known.

HAMBURG, Jan. 26.
Letters from Rochfort mention, that the frigate L'Andromaque lately arrived from Gaudeloupe, had brought six islands of colors taken from the English in Grenada, 8 large boxes of silver in ingots, and 3500 lb. of silver plate, and a great many other articles of value.

The Austrians took possession of Cracow, on the fifth inst. and the Prussian government is already established at Warsaw, once the capital of an extensive and independent state. The residence of a king dethroned, not by Jacobins, but by neighboring kings.

It seems gen. Favar, the Prussian commandant at Warsaw, places little confidence in the gratitude which may naturally be expected from the Poles, for being permitted to share the happiness of his Prussian majesty's subjects. He lately enjoined, under the severest pains, that every citizen who had arms of any kind in his possession would deposit them immediately in the arsenal.

LONDON, December 10.
A comet was discovered on the eleventh ult. from the royal observatory at Berlin, situated between the Lyre and Swan's neck. It appeared through the telescope like a dark point, round and without a distinct nucleus; at eleven at night its direct elevation was about 238 degrees, & its declination towards the North 53, 10-2. On the 12th, the sky was overcast; but on the 13th, the weather cleared up, and at 57 minutes after 8 o'clock, M. Bode estimated the direct ascension of the comet, at 282 degrees 29 minutes and 36 seconds; and its declination towards the north, at 25 degrees 49 minutes, 44 seconds. It is therefore retrograde; takes a direction from the South West towards Hercules and Opichus, and appears to shape its course towards the sun.

January 18.
Tuesday a meeting of the Whig Club was held at the Crown and Anchor tavern. It was the most numerous ever witnessed at this season of the year. Mr. Erskine addressed the meeting, exhorting them to persevere in those efforts for the repeal of the late acts, which they had so auspiciously begun.

No publication has been read with more admiration, than the late speech of Gen. Washington; temperate, bold, moderate and humane. "Look exclaimed," Mr. Erskine, in the conclusion of his eloquent speech, on Tuesday at the Whig Club, "Look while the blood and treasure of this country are lavishly wasting and exhausting, how that great and immortal patriot, preserves the peace, the harmony and the dignity of America. Like a great Colossus, surrounded by liberty, plenty, and peace, he bestrides Europe—observes all the miseries with which it is afflicted and by his wisdom and philanthropy, prevents America from experiencing the ill effects resulting from similar calamities. Good God! Gentleman, when I read the speech of the illustrious Character to the House of Representatives I should not be surprised that the people of America adore the great and beneficent Father of the Creation, who gave them such a guardian, and that they should only be prevented by a sense of religious duty, from paying an equal adoration to Washington himself.

The Prince of Wales was married on the 8th of April, and Mr. Sheridan on the 28th of the same month. The Princess was delivered on the 8th, and Mrs. Sheridan on the 14th inst. so that the latter was the most expeditious by fourteen days, & that too with the difference of having a Boy. It was said on this occasion a considerable war was depending between his Royal Highness and Mr. Sheridan.

February 12.
Neither the Emperor, the king of Prussia, nor the king of Spain, had any ministers remaining at Balle so late as the latter end of last month, all expectation of negotiation having vanished.

The lower order of people in this country have of late been too much inured to the practices of fasting, that they find no difficulty in complying with the injunctions of the proclamation in the Gazette of Saturday evening; but we have our doubts whether they would not more fervently wish success to war, if it produced a fast instead of a fast.

On the 30th ult. an official note was delivered to citizen Calhoun, the French minister at Berlin, on the part of the Prussian ministry, advising him in the strongest terms that his Prussian majesty was determined to observe the separate secret article of the treaty of Balle, wherein the king of Prussia is said to have promised not to interfere in the affairs of Holland.

February 19.
Advices received yesterday from Ireland, it is said, state, that the desperate insurgents in Armagh had gone to lengths that were horrible. They had surrounded several houses, to which they had set fire, and burnt to death the miserable victims of their fury. The number of lives lost could not be ascertained, but the violence of the insurrection was still raging when the account was dispatched.

NANTES, January 14.
One of our high columns having discovered the retreat of Charette and his errand companions, attacked them, killed fifty and took their grand Standard, made of white taffeta, bearing a large crown, with the inscription, "Pro Deo et Rege." The thick woods in the neighborhood of Tablier, favoured the escape of the remaining Brigands, who fled as soon as they discovered our troops.

The inhabitants of the villages of La Venée are almost all returned to their respective homes, and have delivered up their arms; they are tired of fighting, and assist the Republicans in the pursuit of their infamous chiefs. One of these people has led our troops to a place where twelve of the chiefs were hid, who were immediately seized and sent before the military commission. By the country people our troops found a great number of muskets, cannons furnished by the British, ammunition and provisions which were all hid in the earth.

RELEASE, January 14.
It is with pain we have to state, that a party of those infuriated men, who have deluged the county of Armagh, are now turning their fury to the county of Down. On Wednesday night last, they penetrated as far as the road from Drogheda to Rathfriland, about two miles from the former town, where they attacked the house of a Catholic, and perpetrated cruelties, too shocking to delicacy for us to relate; the whole country, of all persuasions, immediately assembled to resist them, and the neighbouring gentlemen have united their efforts to save the county of Down from this violation of the law. We cannot take upon us to state precisely who the instigators and abettors of these misdeeds are, but time will shew. It is a great pleasure, however, to reflect, that the affair which threatened so much anarchy, is likely, through the addresses and liberality of a few enlightened gentlemen, to become the means of binding the Catholic and Protestant together by the strongest of all ties, that of mutual good offices and protection.

At a meeting of the association of Belfast Weavers, on Saturday last it was unanimously resolved, that they would not retain, in their houses, or in any manner employ persons concerned in the atrocities in the county of Armagh.

PHILADELPHIA, April 9.
Extract of a letter from Samuel Bayard, Esq. agent of the United States in London, to a gentleman in this city, dated January 17, 1796.

"As soon as ministry learn the fine of conduct, which the house of representatives mean to pursue, I am persuaded their conduct, as it regards us will be satisfactory; should the house coincide with the president and senate, every thing here will go well; should obstacles on the other hand be thrown in the way by the popular branch of the government I doubt whether the western polls will be surrendered, or restitution made of our captured property. However, I trust that every man who has any regard to the honor, the faith, or integrity of his country, will see the necessity of carrying the treaty fully into effect, so far as regards the United States."

Extract of a letter from a gentleman in Armagh, Ireland, to his friend, dated February 2 1796.

"Since your departure from this country, the internal commotions have increased to a great degree; its progress is the most alarming. We are constant under apprehensions of a general war throughout the kingdom; the country people are so much divided in principle, that they are constantly watching one another, in particular at night, lest their houses should be demolished; there is not one day passes without the properties of many inhabitants being totally burned and destroyed; the poor cottager who is not willing to join the republicans, is inhumanly treated, on his goods contemned. I have many nights sat, seeing my neighbors' houses, barns, and offices burned to the ground. They assembled in large bodies on the 4th of January, an action took place between this city & Rich hill on a plain called the King, which you know; there were several thousands concerned; the engagement was desperate with all sorts of weapons; it lasted for six hours; there were upwards of one thousand killed & wounded. The error that this day gave to our country, has caused numbers to evacuate this city, and remove to other provinces; the damage was dreadful. You may rely upon this as an absolute fact, bring any eye witness to the same Cormac Dugan, captain of a republican party, who lived near Rich-hill, was killed a few days after; and eighteen of his men desperately wounded. They are in the hospital of Armagh, which is nearly full of wounded men—they attacked dean Allot's house and ordered him to proceed to a Roman Catholic chapel, and take on him the priests' vestment, as there was a vacancy since priest Crauly's death, he made his escape. All the gentlemen in this country are ordered up to Dublin to acquit government of their situation.

"This is the way we are at present situated, the horror of an approaching war, which for some years past we expected is now at hand. God only knows the result of these affairs."

"Happy are you my good friend, to be in a land where unanimity and peace subsists; we are unknown to the blessings you possess in the land of freedom; we are willing to obtain liberty, but the mode of conduct at present adopted, seems to reverse the true means to obtain that desired object. I am convinced that we will be as rotten as ever the counter-revolutionaries of France were in La Vendee. I wish that you would inform your countrymen with the particulars here related."

Extract of a letter from an American gentleman in London, to his friend in this city, dated Feb. 2.

"I was informed by Mr. Finckney, that a gentleman had just been with him who has purchased a considerable tract of land on the Ohio, in Pennsylvania, who this spring will take out with him 2500 settlers, chiefly farmers, who are all engaged, and ready to embark. I cannot tell you the effect which the President's speech has produced through this country: I speak, I think correctly, when I say it will be means of pouring some millions sterling into the lap of the United States; it has excited admiration, injured confidence, and reflected a degree of confidence on every one who bears the name of an American; indeed there is no national character so high in Europe at this time as the American—every one who has ever been in the United States, seems eager to claim the rights of citizenship and to be considered as an American."

A two story BRICK HOUSE on Main Street, an excellent location for a business, and a valuable and well known tract of 1000 ACRES of LAND, situated on the mouth of Tate's creek, 15 miles from Lexington, on the main road leading to Madison county house, containing 1000 acres; 200 of which is excellent bottom; the remainder, hilly, but well timbered; 80 acres cleared, and five acres in timothy meadow, and twenty more can be made and watered with very little expense.

On the upper part of this tract is

The water empties from those mill into a pond, whereon stands a tall mill in good repair, and a new hemp mill. — There is also on the premises, a new framed dwelling house, kitchen and flour house, with a number of useful cabins, and a large and never failing spring convenient; a horse-walk covered 20 feet, and may be enlarged over a level piece of ground; connections with every aqueduct suitable for manufacturing, cordage; a young bearing peach orchard; also a number of bearing apple trees.

As the above property is situated in a thick settled fertile part of the country, where the greatest abundance of produce may be collected, and the land abounds with good timber for Boat building, and for the Mississippi trade, can be built and loaded at the mouth of Tate's creek with more convenience. I left

The Subscribers

A shortment of MERCHANTISE, which they will sell on very moderate terms for cash and country produce. I hope who please to deal with them as far as six or eight pounds, shall have a considerable abatement from the common retail price.

They all also dispose of their Tan-yard and stock on hand, consisting of about four hundred hinds and one hundred cord of Cheimut and black oak bark; there is a good bark mill and a new flanged cutting up 24 by 16, with 3 rooms and a commodious loft. There is also a good dwelling-house, with other necessary buildings, and 250 acres of Chindook land within 6 miles of the mill-site.

All those indebted to them, by bond, note or book account, are requested to make payment before the first day of March, otherwise they will be under the disagreeable necessity of putting their accounts into the hands of a proper officer for collection.

PHIL. & MATTHIAS BUSH.
Harrisdburgh, January 10.

ALL persons having demands against John May deceased, either for money lands in the State of Kentucky, are requested to make payment, and to perform their specific contracts immediately. The said deceased has by his last will and testament, subjected his lands to the payment of his debts; and the subscriber will make it the first object of his administration to provide for the same, with as much dispatch as the nature and circumstances of the estate will admit of. And whereas the said John May met with a premature death by the hands of the Indians on his passage down the river Ohio many papers and much information re-

Ono, many papers and much information perished with him, 'tis probable the subscriber may need the information of others in some matters relative to the negotiation of the deceased, in the western country, and he will thankfully receive any communications which gentlemen acquainted with the concerns of the deceased may think proper to make.

I have appointed Mr. Thomas Carneal my agent in Kentucky to receive and forward all communications in that State, alluded to above. As the want of a representative since the death of Mr. May, has obstructed all operations relative to his transactions and no doubt to the injury of many. I am, Sir, very respectfully, Your obedient servant,

J. B. HARRIS.

many, I now intreat that all persons concerned may bring forward their business immediately.

the testimony of certain witnesses, to perpetuate the testimony of certain witnesses,
in the name of Philip Drake, entered in 1783,
and do such other act as shall be thought necessary to establish his claim.
Wm. Payne.

NOTICE
I hereby give to all whom it may concern,
that pursuant to an order of Green county court, appointing Elias Barber, William Banks and Thomas Hall, or any two of them, commissioners, to take depositions to perpetuate the testimony of my improvement, boundary line on other special place of my entry, I shall attend with said commissioners on the 1st day of the month of May next, at the house of John M. Hays, in the county of Green, to take the depositions of William Greer, Daniel Hays and all those who have had land intervening, are desired to attend at the time and

NOTICE
THAT pursuant to an order of the county court of Franklin, I design on the third day of May next, accompanied by commissioners, to meet at Richard Barr's improvement in the county of Franklin, and ascertain the claim of said lands, and discuss the same. The improvements between Barr's upper and lower creek, the place of meeting will be at the house of John Robinson, who occupies a part of said lands, in order then and there to perpetuate the testimony of certain witnesses to establish said improvement, and do such other acts as shall appear necessary and agreeable to law.
It is further to be observed that the above described improvement and land lies not exceeding five miles from Franklin.
Richard Barr.
April 22, 1796.

TAKE NOTICE
THAT on Tuesday the 24th day of May next, I shall attend commissioners appointed by the county court of Clarke, to take depositions to establish the call of the following entry: May 12, 1782, Jacob Myers enters 5000 acres on the waters of a large fork of Licking, running parallel with the mountains, and crossing in the main branch about thirty miles above the upper Blue Ridge, including four or five valleys, made by Thomas Clarke and company in 1775. And then and there to do such other acts as the law requires.
Andrew Swearingen.
Clarke county, April 22, 1796.

TAKE NOTICE
THAT on Thursday the 26th day of May next, I shall attend with the commissioners appointed by the county court of Clarke, to establish the beginning corner of Thomas Swearingen's entry of 1000 acres, on the dividing ridge between Hingston and Flat creek, at a tree marked T. S. on the north side of a pond, and then and there to do such other acts as the law requires.
Andrew Swearingen.
Clarke county, April 25, 1796.

Be it known to all whom it may concern,
that whereas I have obtained a title to a certain tract of land, it being a preemption
of 120 acres granted by the Commonwealth to John R. Jones, and being desirous to establish the improvement upon which said preemption was obtained, do herby notify all persons interested, that I shall attend at said improvement on the 1st day of May next, with the commissioners
appointed by the county court of Bourbon,
under an act entitled "An act to ascertain the boundaries of land, and to give pre-sumptions there to take the depositions of witnesses for the above purpose, and then and there to do such other and further acts as shall be thought necessary to perpetuate the same as they may think fit &c.
the law in such.

A, every encouragement ought to be given to manufacturers in this state,
this in particular claims the attention of the public. The many advantages which will arise from manufacturing DUCK, must be so lovely to every mind of reflection,
that the managers think it unnecessary to enlarge on the subject; and the liberal principle upon which the scheme is founded (not two blanks to a prize) will, exclusive of that encouragement, justify the speculative adventurer upon principles of gain. The managers therefore flatter themselves that they will meet with full encouragement in the sales of tickets as will in a short time justify their appointing and giving public notice when the drawing of the lottery
will commence.
